

HAMMOND SUPERIOR COURTS

Five divorce suits were dismissed this week by Judge Reiter in Room 1 of the Hammond Superior court because the parties instituting the proceedings did not appear when the suits came up for trial. SCOUT MEN WILL BANQUET

Next Monday evening will be a gala day in Hammond Scouting. All members of the local council are invited to attend a banquet at the Hammond Cafe which marks the close of the course in Scouting which has been conducted during the past night weeks by the chamber of commerce.

According to present plans a splendid time is offered to all those who attend. There will be some good snappy talks on Scouting and its possibilities and a lot of fun. We trust that all our Scout men will turn out and get the enthusiasm which this occasion is sure to create.

A new executive will doubtless be in the field soon and it is very desirable that renewed interest in Scouting be engendered that he may have the fullest support and cooperation of the Hammond people. Those who are not so registered will be taxed 25c per plate. All intending to go should report promptly to Dr. Geo. Smith, the Scout Commissioner.

WON'T DELAY LAWS ENFORCEMENT

(INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE) WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—A vote against ratification of the prohibition amendment will not delay the enforcement of the law, the department of justice announced today.

The fact that the secretary of state included Ohio among the states as having ratified the amendment in the proclamation of the law will not make it necessary for a new proclamation to be issued, Assistant Atty. Gen. Frieson said. Sufficient states have ratified the amendment to make the proclamation legal, it was said.

Feels "Squiggeley" to Drop 122 Feet, Says Girl Diver

Miss Helen Carr's Imagination Always Works at High Speed in Plunge That Takes Less Than Three Seconds.

MISS HELEN CARR

What does a diver think about on the way down?

This is the question every person who visits Charles Dillingham's "Happy Days" at the New York Hippodrome, asks himself after seeing Miss Helen Carr, famous flying fish in "Happy Days," drop 112 feet into the pool on the Hippodrome stage.

According to the laws of acceleration of falling objects, the actual fall into the water requires something less than three seconds, but Miss Carr insists that three seconds, under the conditions, suffices for considerable thinking. Miss Carr says her sensations during the drop never include those of fear, and are more apt to be grotesque and fanciful than otherwise.

On several occasions Miss Carr has been certain that one of the Hippodrome elephants was occupying the exact spot in the big pool which she had picked out for a landing place. At least once this presentment has been so strong that subconsciously she twisted her body sufficiently to strike the water with her back to the audience instead of with her side to the audience in the usual manner. Miss Carr insists that a "delightfully squiggeley feeling" accompanies the dive.

SUES FOR $10,000

Mrs. Pearl Buettner asks for $10,000 damages from the United Heating & Foundry Co., of Hammond, because of injuries which she alleges she suffered November 11 when she was hit by a truck belonging to that company. The accident occurred on Calumet avenue as Mrs. Buettner was walking near the side of the street where there was no sidewalk. She says her hearing was ruined and her speech impaired and other injuries were sustained that have made her a nervous wreck. The complaint was filed by Attorney McAlenr, Dorsey and Gillett in the Hammond superior court today.

TRADE AT HOME!

The Home Trade Cops Off Chicago Trade

It has been oft repeated the merchants of this town have unbeatable merchandise and unbeatable values.

Nothing proves this assertion so well as the fact the Chicago people leave their own city and trade on the Indiana side of the line. It's being done daily.

And it stands to reason. Wherever there is great selling expense—high cost of location and a dozen other tremendous cost items, prices are higher and true values scarcer.

A trip across to Hammond in Indiana pays better than a trip across to Chicago, in Illinois.

The minute you cross the line to Chicago the power of your dollar is materially weakened.

The best values and the greatest bargains are found here—and Chicago people will tell you so. People of this town who have tried both places will tell you so.
